"Pattaya"... Better Than Ever

No matter what some people say, "Pattaya" is among the first tourist destinations many Bangkokians think of when they want to say goodbye to busy workdays and find a relaxing corner on a nearby beach. Especially during festivals, Pattaya is the first place they choose.

"Wan Lai" or the Pattaya water festival has attracted tourists from every corner of the world to enjoy splashing each other on the crowded streets. It is a time when both Thai and foreign tourists are happy and full of fun, so lots of people from around the world flock to join this and other festivals every year.

But it's a sad fact that fewer tourists come to join Wan Lai in 2010 due to factors such as the global financial crisis, which has affected tourism both directly and indirectly. The crisis has brought fewer tourists, prompting investors to slow down or cease their projects. Domestic political conflicts also have to be mentioned. Unfortunately, the unresolved political disputes have taken their toll on Thai tourism.

Worsening the problems is the arrival of H1N1 flu. This has made many people avoid travelling altogether, reducing the number of tourists still further. Not only Pattaya has been affected by this latest nightmare, tourist resorts all over the world are facing a similar downturn.

Despite the many negative factors, Pattaya remains a tourist city with great potential and wide scope for growth. Pattaya today is more than ready to welcome both Thai and foreign tourists. Other than its many well-rounded services, entertainments, shopping malls, restaurants and sports centers, Pattaya is offering discount campaigns of 10-50% around the city to encourage people to visit. Virtually every business in Pattaya is willing to offer quality products and services at very special prices. To get the city on its feet and back to its usual fighting fit form.

"Greetings from Our Modern Seaside Paradise"

Message from the Mayor of Pattaya City

It is a great pleasure for me, on behalf of the people of Pattaya and Pattaya City Hall, to welcome you to Pattaya, our modern freewheeling and 'sarnuk' city resort in the sun.

Pattaya certainly is a place of contrasts. Here you can find quiet secluded beaches, cultural and historical attractions, the finest gourmet restaurants and the glitzy nightlife for which the city is famous. Pattaya's shopping is second to none, and accommodation covers a full gamut from budget guesthouses through to luxury five-star hotels and serviced apartments. The city's relaxed sense of 'sarnuk' combined with beaches, sunshine and the very best facilities mean there's always something for everyone.

Pattaya has all the ingredients for a good time, whether you're here for a few days, a long summer vacation or you're planning to take up residence. I sincerely hope your visit will be a rewarding and enriching experience. Please use the information in this handbook as a starting point for your adventures and explorations in Pattaya. More information is available at Pattaya City Hall or at the many tourist information points dotted around town. Please enjoy our paradise under the sun.

Mr. Kijirong Kungjoms
Mayor of Pattaya City

"We Love Pattaya" Team outlines 14 core policies to promote sustainable growth

The "We Love Pattaya" team consisting of a group of young managers under the leadership of Pattaya Mayor Kijirong Kungjoms, has outlined 13 strategies and 14 emergency policies based on balanced principles to promote sustainable growth for Pattaya.

Thirteen important strategies include:

1. To emphasize safety of the lives and property of people and tourists, both Thai and foreigners
2. To solve drug problems
3. To give importance to and develop transport system, both land and marine
4. To promote tourism and public relations
5. To support education
6. To upgrade public utilities, infrastructure and information and communication technologies
7. To promote sports and recreational activities
8. To develop sufficiency economy and encourage the use of local wisdom
9. To support public health and environmental work
10. To develop society in order to boost people's morality and ethics, as well as local culture and religion
11. To focus on water sources development and alternative energies
12. To improve city planning and development by creating equal citizens
13. To work efficiently and transparently, and encourage people participation and inspection

The clearly outlined strategies are used as guidelines to determine 14 emergency policies for Pattaya as follows:

1. The city must be transparent and speed up the establishment of Pattaya City Community Council.
2. Pattaya City must be safe 24 hours daily, both in-house and outside, through the establishment of Tacphraya 210 cadet agents, who will cooperate with government agencies, police and soldiers to suppress crime and drugs.
3. Tap water and electricity must reach every part of the city. Pattaya Koh Jan will boost 100% water production capacity.
4. Pattaya will have electric trains as a new transportation. Two policy lines will be in service in the initial phase.

5. Pattaya will see smooth traffic, with elevated ways and a three-phase traffic system improvement to solve traffic congestion problems. Modern parking lots, a beach market and a tunnel going under Sukhumvit Intersection will also be developed. The city will consider introducing future transport systems.

6. Pattaya will prevent and solve the repeated flood problems by upgrading flood prevention and suppression systems.

7. Twelve-year free education with lunch, meeting the standard of Sarn Sakon School, and school buses are offered to students.

8. Pattaya will help to unemployed people and have flourishing businesses. It will tackle poverty problems under the slogan "give knowledge, give skills, give jobs". Four vendors will be registered and justice people will receive assistance from the city.

9. Pattaya residents will be able to access medical services. Twenty thousand beds from hospitals in the city are available. Free medical services under the healthcare scheme and social security system are provided.

10. Pattaya will be free of unsurfaced roads within 2 years. It will announce a ban on road works along 5 roads for a period of 5 years. Asphalt roads will be constructed and air pollution will be reduced.

11. Pattaya will support low-income owners to have secure homes that are free from garbage and taxes. Low-income owners will pay a monthly instalment of 500 baht for 15 years. The city also plans to eliminate garbage odors and increase the number of garbage containers and trucks.

12. Pattaya aims to be the center of sports in the eastern region, with a high-standard sports center capable of helping build Thai national athletes such as Chonburi F.C. Team. The city will collaborate with government and private sectors to organize more sports competitions.

13. Pattaya will hold travel fairs and world-class events, and announce "Visit Pattaya Year" in order to attract visitors and generate more revenues. It will also push for an extension of entertainment venue closing times.

14. Pattaya aims to offer visitors beautiful beaches that are clean and safe with clear sea, and facilities such as parking lots, public toilets, showers, Wi-Fi internet services and eco-friendly electric kiosk.

"Pattaya"... Paradise City

The world financial crisis, which started in 2008, as well as political problems in early 2009, have both contributed to a marked decline in the number of tourists visiting the country, particularly Pattaya. However, despite these and many other problems, the enduring charm of "Pattaya" continues to flourish.

As a top World-class Beach Resort, Pattaya continues to offer a holiday paradise especially tailored to accommodate tourists from all over the world. The special charm of the city has the ongoing potential to attract and welcome visitors worldwide to enjoy all the pleasures of a world-class beach resort.

Although its business community has witnessed a considerable drop in revenue due to the economic downturn, this same phenomenon has affected and impacted business activities severely among other well-known resorts worldwide.

To survive the current economic slump, Pattaya must continue to promote itself vigorously as one of the world's most popular world-class holiday resorts, offering visitors a veritable vacation paradise they will always remember with pleasure. The public and private sectors must cooperate more closely together to conceive and realize a variety of projects that will further enhance Pattaya's many and varied attractions as a tourist paradise.

A special "Sales Throughout The City" campaign launched on June 8, 2009, offering massive sales reductions of between 10-80%, covering 20,000 luxury hotel rooms, plus a wide variety of other businesses and department stores, came together in a concerted advertising campaign supported by the city's public and private agencies, as a kick-start to recover Pattaya's legendary liveliness in the short term.

The campaign produced a positive response with Pattaya taking center stage once again as it attracted an influx of many visitors to the various pop music and jazz festivals, featuring many international groups, as well as a flurry of business conferences, seminars, meetings and incentive reward packages. Many more people talked and thought about "Pattaya" during the campaign, as the ideal location for their own many and varied activities that would certainly be enhanced with the added value of Pattaya's own special charm.

Business conferences, seminars, group-working meetings, tourism and entertainment activities, or simply as an ideal holiday destination are all part of a wide variety of choices available in Pattaya, the beach resort paradise conveniently close to Bangkok that guarantees your complete satisfaction.

Currently, Pattaya's income is tending to lean more on Thai tourists than before, as it endures the long wait for returning foreign tourists, when the world economic situation eventually begins to pick up.

Although, it's a time for waiting, many projects concerned with the city's ongoing development are going ahead. Pattaya's management has never wavered from its commitment to achieve a perfect city in all aspects, including infrastructure, charming tourist attractions and a whole host of related vacation activities.

Electric Train Along the Beach

The Management Team of Pattaya, includes the Mayor, Mr. Itthiphol Kunplame and four Deputies, who are all young men of the new generation, in charge since May 2008 for a period of four years.

The Management Team plans to develop Pattaya City with exciting new and creative projects, as revealed by the Mayor upon his appointment. The plans are to develop Pattaya in a balanced manner with five principles, seven buildings and 13 strategies based on the readiness of the city.

The major goal is to maintain good policies, while adding new ones to improve Pattaya and enable it to be one of the best tourist cities with perfect utilities and facilities, equal to those in many big, scenic cities of the world.

The latest development plan revealed in June, 2009, by Mr. Vinaiwat Kakhai, Pattaya's Deputy Mayor, includes many interesting projects, especially the project to develop mass transport by using an electric train. This will enable Pattaya to be more modern with fast, comfortable and convenient access to many tourist attractions.

The project's progress was enhanced by the interest of a group of Dubai investors interested in joining the proj-

"Bali Hai Pier" The New Center

The other big project on process is the development of Bali Hai Pier located next to South Pattaya as a new transport and communications center as well as a hub for both land and sea communications.

The project aims to construct a new Bali Hai Pier to be a center of tourism and communications, including a parking building with a budget of 100 million baht.

At Bali Hai Pier, a group of English developers plans to establish a giant Ferris wheel with a budget of 1 billion baht. It will become a new prime selling point for viewing Pattaya city, the beach and surroundings as "Pattaya Eye".

All development projects are part of the changing image of Pattaya by promoting this well-known seaside tourist city to become even more famous as a real paradise for tourists with its modernness in infrastructure & hotel facilities, venues for international seminars and meetings together with various high-end shopping centers. All are designed to ensure Pattaya becomes more lively, attracting all lifestyles, not just a city with a night life.

The new image of Pattaya under the new city administration is soon to be implemented. They are putting more effort into renewing the city despite the economic slowdown by building out strong points and finding selling points that will enhance Pattaya to become one of the perfect tourist cities of the world in accordance with the slogan "Pattaya Paradise City".

"Pattaya" this tourist paradise welcomes all visitors with a complete range of services to satisfy all lifestyles.

Property Boom in Pattaya Variety of Villas and Condos

The world financial crisis has seriously restrained foreign investment in the Pattaya area, which, but for the economic downturn, would have been yet another remarkable boom area for property development. Many minor and major property projects in the Pattaya area have already commenced but are held up awaiting investment finance from international investors, including European, Scandinavian and new market Russian.

Although the Hamburger Crisis has resulted in a slow-down of overall purchasing power, Pattaya is still regarded as a golden opportunity for property investment, guaranteed by the commencement of many large and small construction projects, many of which are currently under construction.

The latest survey by the Agency For Real Estate Affairs of the Property Market in June 2008, revealed that many real estate developments were booming in Pattaya, both ongoing and new projects. It also indicated many different styles and price levels of property in prime areas.

Pattaya Beach and surrounding areas are prime locations where the survey found 25 projects located, including Baan Fah Rim Head, Baan Chetla, Eakmongkol Chaiyapruk 2, View Talay Jomtien (Project 3, 5, 6), Rachedee Condomotel, Catalina, Jomtien Plaza Condominium, Rodeo Drive, etc.

Pattaya's outstanding selling point over the past two years has been resort condominiums with up to 42 new projects started. Many are prominent, in both design and point-of-sale for example Exclusive Residence 2-3-4, View Talay Residence 3-4 5, Ocean Portofino Condominium, View Talay Sand The Park Ocean One View Talay Marina Beach Condominium & City Garden Condominium, North Point, The Cove, Ananya Beach Front, White Sand Beach, Reflection, Laguna Height The Retreat, The Loft Southshore, The Ocean Pearl, The Urban Suite, The Paradise Residence The Amber Royal Hill, The Beach Resort and Residence etc

69 Projects between the Beach and the Mountains

In addition, there are another 21 projects for villas in the areas between the beach and mountains such as Cosi Palai, Manuriva, Jomtien Park Villa, The Pool House, Island View Residence Baan Ditawaran The Royal Manjira Baan Talay, Jarawadee, Nagawadee, View Talay Marina Ande, Phu Tara, Prima Lagoon, Siam Royal view, Horseshoe Place Silk Road Place, Sea Breeze Villa, Majestic Residence and Hill View Villas

Another interesting location for real estate in the Pattaya area, of which there has been much talk about over the past 2-3 years, is the increase in housing developments in the mountain view area. This has attracted increased foreign investment in acquiring residences in these areas and the survey reported 69 such projects located in the mountain zone.

In this particular zone, designs vary considerably and some have been developed by overseas investors, for example Park Avenue 2 Wanarua Park Village Naramit Garden Home Dhewee Resort, Thai Garden Hill Tropica Village Pattaya Than, Chaleeda Village, Chokchai Garden Home 4 Grand Hill Village Paragon Park, Siam Plaza, Mukda Tarin Baan Ngam Chareon Pattaya 5&7 etc

The Cove, New Condos,

"Pattaya" has been known as a charming tourist city famous for its vibrant nightlife for a very long time. Today one local private operator is trying to present a new perspective of Pattaya by developing this seaside city to be more diverse and to take on a more international image as a major tourist city, through the creation of premium real estate projects.

Mr. Chavalitumrong, CEO of Patch Property Development Co., Ltd., a young energetic man in the third generation of the 'Chavalitumrong' clan, owns over 500 rai of land in the heart of the city, most of which is leased to major retail businesses and hotels. He is a new generation entrepreneur who wants to build a new and more international Pattaya, although he realizes this will take time.

"Pattaya has many highlights to attract visitors from around the world: a convenient location close to the central Bangkok, beautiful beaches, 5-5-star hotels and a superb range of eateries. However, Pattaya is only perceived as a city of nightlife by many people. I understand this point and I believe it will take considerable time to adjust the image of the city."

Mr. stressed that as a local businessman, he wanted to develop Pattaya as a tourist city with integrated capacity and build a good image for Pattaya.

To achieve his goals, Patch Property Development plans to invest 10 billion baht for short-, medium- and long-term investments to develop property projects in the form of a complex. These projects will cover an area of 80 rai in North Pattaya (Wong Amat beach), which is seaside land and the last and largest plot of prime land available in the city.

The first project development is the resort-style condo "The Cove" spanning an area of 7 rai on Wong Amat beach, North Pattaya, Soi Na Kua 18/1. It began construction and has been open for reservations since the end of 2006, and is expected to reach completion in late 2009.

With an investment value of 2 billion baht, The Cove is an 18-storey high-end luxury condominium with 103 units.

Besides its modern design, The Cove's highlights include: 80-degree sea views from every unit. Each unit has 2 floors with 10-meter long balconies and the first floor of all units are embraced by a swimming pool. Car parking is available in two areas: one in the basement accommodating 95 cars, the other is in the condo premises accommodating 130 cars.

"We want to build The Cove to be a luxury condo for sale at a reasonable price of 130,000 baht per square meter and be different from those of competitors. We have achieved 50% reservations so far, with 50% Thai and 50% foreigners, most of whom are Japanese and Europeans."

"The Wave" is open for reservations at the end of 2008.

Itti added that the next project to The Cove is a seaview condominium "The Wave" which is a luxury condo targeting B+ level customers. Also featuring a distinctive design, The Wave, however, offers smaller rooms than those of The Cove and has 55 floors.

The new project's investment value is 1.4 billion baht. It has 283 units with sales price starting from 8.4 million baht, or 90,000 baht per square meter. The size of the smallest unit is 60 square meters. It will be open for reservations at late 2009, around November. The construction will begin in the middle of 2010 and is expected to be complete within 3 years.

"This project is different from The Cove in that it will be built according to customer demands. For example, if the customer wants a 2-room unit or 3-room unit, the space can be expanded to 120 or 180 square meters, respectively. They can also tell us which floor and location they want. We will make a survey on customer demands during the reservation period."

Itti stressed that both are pilot projects which are part of a plan to develop quality projects for Pattaya so as to elevate the tourist city to premium class. He also has plans for further land development to achieve his goal to upgrade Pattaya as a recognized world-class destination and seaside resort.

Itti Chavalittamrong, CEO

Just a couple of hours' drive from Bangkok, Pattaya's golf courses come in a variety of styles, many created by world-renowned designers. The most famous courses in Chonburi-Pattaya include:

Burapha Golf and Resort - A 36-hole golf course consisting of two 18-hole championship golf courses fully equipped with modern facilities. Located in Srinachee, which is 109 km from Bangkok, Burapha Golf and Resort was designed by Gary Panks and David Graham.

Siam Country Club (Old Course) - Located in Banglamung district, Siam Country Club has long been known as Thailand's first privately owned golf course, founded and developed by Dr. Thaworn Phornprapha of Siam Motors. The 18-hole golf course was designed by Iseo Mizum. Today, Siam Country Club's new golf course is also open nearby.

Phoenix Golf and Country Club - A 27-hole golf course in Banglamung district designed by Dan Satchell.

Khao Khaew Country Club - A 27-hole golf course in Srinachee district designed by Pete Dye.

Leam Chaebang International Country Club

distinct. Designed by the great Jack Nicklaus, no less, this golf course is a 30-minute drive from Pattaya.

There are a few golf courses offering a full range of services in Pattaya. In addition to complete services and facilities, many courses in Pattaya are offering special discounts of between 20-60% with, for example, green fees for a 9-hole course starting from just 500 baht on weekdays.

Siam Country Club Pattaya

"The Plantation Course"

Siam Country Club, the first privately owned golf course in Thailand, opened its fairways in February 1972. In 2008, Siam Country Club began renovation of the existing 18-hole golf course and commenced construction of a new 27-hole golf course nearby. In March 2007, Siam Country Club Pattaya Old Course was reopened, and immediately coursed to showcase an international caliber championship tournament, the Honda LPGA Thailand 2007 in October.

Now, with an investment of 18 million US dollars, the new 27-hole golf course has opened under the name Siam Country Club Pattaya Plantation. Both golf courses have been designed by well-known Arizona based Schmidt & Curley Design Inc. The "PLANTATION" name was given in honor of the area's historic sugar cane, tobacco and pineapple plantations and each 9-hole is named accordingly.

The Old Course retains a rich, mature and traditional classic tree-lined golf course. Interior decorations from the lobby to the restaurant and locker rooms are unmissably soft, subtle and exclusive. The Plantation on the other hand is uniquely different, modern and refreshing. An architectural "Bird Wing" clubhouse sits high on adjacent rolling hills overlooking the golf course. The sleek 200 seat "Plantation Cafe" enjoys breathtaking views over Pattaya Bay while below the clubhouse accommodates functions for up to 80 persons.

Strong emphasis is given to upkeep of the two international championship golf courses. "Novotek" American Bermuda grass has been chosen for the greens. Other areas are grassed with "Seashore Paspalum" a revolutionary strand typically used in coastal tropical and subtropical climates. Groundcovers such as Red Fountain grass, Love grass and Yellow Peanut grass are widely planted to blend into native grasses and the surrounding trees, ensuring a landscape of outstanding beauty.

Championship quality and design. Impeccable natural beauty, stylish clubhouse with modern comforts, and a second to none attitude set Siam Country Club apart from any other golf course in Thailand. The first 9 holes of the 27-hole golf course are now open to challenge golfers to test their passion for the game.

Spice up Your Life With Pattaya's Gastronomic Delights

Pattaya, Thailand's premier beach resort, is a mere two hours by road from Bangkok and a hub of interesting tourist attractions and world-class restaurants, especially those offering fresh and spicy seafood. For many people, Pattaya is their usual hang-out for short trips to the seaside.

Several well-known restaurants are dotted around Pattaya, including North Pattaya, Central Pattaya, South Pattaya, Khao Phra Tamnak, Jomtien Beach and Bang Bure. Each restaurant varies in size and style, ranging from opulent five-star to simple street vendor, enabling you to taste a wide variety of fresh seafood from Thailand's bounteous seas and more.

Pattaya is a center for food, offering a wide assortment of classy international dishes, fresh seafood and genuine northeastern dishes, including, of course, grilled chicken and Southern papaya salad.

Especially enjoyable is the fresh, crisp and briny broiled seafood, dipped in a special sour and spicy sauce that more than fulfills visitors' expectations, often served at a chill-out venue on the shore.

Being a seaside resort, Pattaya has a great number of spicy seafood restaurants. In particular, the famous Lung Sawai Seafood Restaurant at the far end of Jomtien Beach is an ideal spot to sample local seafood at a price that won't hurt your wallet. With refreshing breezes from the ocean, Lung Sawai's recommended dishes include spicy seafood and glass noodles salad, boiled blue crab with glass noodles, and large steamed squid.

, located along the Pattaya-Pakdum Road, opposite the Banglumpu police and fire stations. Mai Khuan Restaurant is not close to the beach, but the seafood fare available more than adequately compensates for this.

Mai Khuan serves various southern dishes, including, besides with sautéed sea crab, freshly made-to-order or sautéed sea-crab salad. The restaurant's fresh seafood includes potent steamed fish, lean in a tangy soup, minced shrimp curry, stir-fried morning glory meat, with shrimp paste, and white turnip salad with sea crab rice. The 20 to 40 tables available for customers every day are usually fully occupied and Mai Khuan Restaurant is so popular that it has opened a branch in Bangkok's Asokeong Ramwong area.

Another Pattaya Restaurant located just beyond South Pattaya, offers tasty food at reasonable prices in a pleasant atmosphere. Recommended items from the extensive menu include stir-fried rice with sea crabs, Thai scorpion, fried mantis shrimp with garlic and pepper, and steamed blue crabs.

One place you should not miss at Pattaya is the legendary seafood restaurant "Pee Pen" at the end of Jomtien Beach. The restaurant was founded in 1988 by Auntie Ju and Uncle Iwan from the Sinder family. At first it was just a small restaurant on the beach. Today it has become a landmark, famed for its spicy seafood dishes. Its highlights are the original crab dishes, from which the name "Pee Pen" originated.

If you have had your fill of seafood or just want a change, then southern style food is highly recommended, especially at Khao Kaeng Pat Tai Phat, located on Pattaya Soi 3 Road and open from 10 am to 4 pm daily.

Additionally, a salad of rice and Thai herbs, consisting of hot cooked rice topped with southern-style sauce, minced dry shrimp, roasted coconut, sliced longbeans, sliced cucumber, bean sprouts and chili powder, will please you with its delicious and original flavor.

For noodle aficionados, many Pattaya people would recommend Wangi Roast Duck as a good place to make for. The restaurant has been in Nakhon for over 20 years and is located on Pattaya Nakhon Road. Highlights include dry noodles with roast duck, rice with roast duck, rice with crispy pork or roasted red pork, bitter melon soup with spare ribs, and Thai rice noodles with green curry.

Pattaya ... Designed for Tourism

Pattaya is well known as a world-class resort destination. In this self-governing municipal city, the infrastructure covers 205.80 sq km (130,062.50 rai). Established as a fully functioning city in all aspects, Pattaya has become more than just a tourist destination with a beautiful 15-kilometer beach.

Pattaya, today, is a major economic city situated on the eastern seaboard of the Gulf of Thailand. More than 87% of its residents are employed in the tourism sector, providing a wide variety of essential goods and services to the remaining residents and the large influx of tourists each year, while the remainder are employed in the agriculture, industry and fishery sectors. The average annual income of these individual residents is around Bt700,000 per annum.

17 Shopping Paradise: Further new charms of Pattaya

One of Pattaya's undoubted charms, is its wide selection of retail outlets, easily comparable to those in other tourist cities, with several modern high-end shopping malls, large department stores, supermarkets, discount stores, outlet malls, open-air markets and market fairs. In all of which, you can "Shop 'til you drop". In all, Pattaya has about 17 modern shopping windows:

1. Central Festival (Big C at North Pattaya) Pattaya 2nd Rd.
2. Town Square (North Pattaya) North Pattaya Rd.
3. Town Square (South Pattaya) Sukhumvit Rd.
4. Royal Garden Plaza (South Pattaya) Pattaya Beach Rd.

Fourteen fresh-food markets are still crowded with buyers and sellers, for example, Former Naklua Market, Pattaya Market (New Naklua Market), Central Pattaya Market, Central Pattaya Market Fair, Phrasiran Market and Bus Khan Market.

18 Tourist Attractions: Colours of Pattaya

Among 18 top tourist attractions in Pattaya, the resort's beaches are, perhaps, the best known. The main Pattaya Beach is crescent-shaped, with its own 17-kilometer seaboard road. Jomtien Beach also runs parallel to a tranquil three-kilometer seashore road.

Wong Phrasiran Beach, on Sri Wong Amrit, offers a peaceful atmosphere along its one-kilometer natural beach. In addition, the Koh Lan archipelago (consisting of Koh Lan, Koh Phrak and Koh Sak) is located west of Pattaya, about 7.5-kilometers offshore. It only takes about 15-minutes by speed boat, or 45-minutes by passenger boat to reach the archipelago. Foreign tourists know it as the "Caribbean", where there are several natural attractions, including many beautiful, pristine beaches.

Kaengkroa Bay has also recently become a new attractive location in Pattaya, well known for its sunb of relaxed serenity.

In the foothills, Chaem Phrakat Park on Phra Tamnak Road, Khao Pattaya (Khao Phrakat), Mini Siam, and the Shrine of Holy-Lok-Sue Gods are all also worth a visit.

Many other attractions have been developed to provide attractive highlights, for example, Pattaya Park (an amusement park), Sattva Art Museum Pattaya, Water Puppet Shows (North Pattaya), Pattaya Monkey Training Center and Ripley's "Believe It or Not" exhibition.

Finally, The Sanctuary of Truth, Lakewood Water Cable Ski and Underwater World Pattaya are all further attractions you should not miss.
